Escapes!

Taking advantage of her opportunity as a trusty, Mrs. Ruby Eaton Butts, serving a sentence for carrying a loaded revolver, walked out of Salem jail and a short time later telephoned a threat to a Somerville man. "I'll get you before I leave the state," she warned him, he told police.

House Asked To Impeach Sec. Perkins

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 — Impeachment proceedings were brought in the House of Representatives today against Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins—first woman ever to sit in a president's cabinet—and two high officials of the department of labor.

The charges were lodged by Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, a Republican of New Jersey, before a chamber jammed with members and spectators.

They grew out of the inquiry conducted by the Dies committee investigating un-American activities and revolved about the failure of the federal government to deport Harry Bridges, West Coast CIO leader and accused Communist.

Accused with Secretary Perkins James L. Houghteling, U. S. commissioner of immigration.

Gerard D. Reilly, solicitor of the Department of Labor.

Miss Perkins issued a statement immediately declaring that she "welcomed" introduction of the impeachment resolution and asked for an immediate hearing before the judiciary committee to which it was referred.

DEMANDS HEARING

Through a congressional hearing, Miss Perkins said:

"The American public may be fully acquainted with the true facts of the deportation proceedings in the Bridges case and the reason why they have been held in abeyance temporarily."

When Representative Thomas rose to impeach. Not since former Representative McFadden (R.) of Pennsylvania brought impeachment proceedings several years ago against former President Hoover has a high official been charged with failing his duty.

A Democratic majority voted, in Hoover's case, to ignore the charges.

Impeachment comes only as a charge—a privilege of a member of the House—and does not mean an official is guilty. A long road of procedure must follow, including a trial before the Senate and prosecution by the House.

House leaders, though disturbed by the charges against Secretary Perkins, were certain that the impeachment charges would never be approved by the House.

CHARGES ARE CITED

Representative Thomas' impeachment resolution charged:

1—That the three officials "did wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously conspire" to "commit offenses against the United States and to defraud the United States by failing, neglecting and refusing to enforce the immigration laws of the United States."

2—Specifically charged them with failing to enforce deportation law against Alfred Renton Bryant Bridges, alias Harry Bridges, West Coast CIO leader of maritime workers, asserting that Bridges advocates overthrow of the government by violence.

3—Charged the three with conspiring to release Bridges after arrest on deportation warrant without requiring bond of not less than $500 as law requires.

4—The three conspired to defraud the United States by causing the John G. Strecker deportation case to be appealed to the United States Supreme Court.

ASKS INVESTIGATION

5—They failed and neglected to enforce deporting laws against other aliens illegally within the United States.

Rep. Thomas then told the House:

"In support of the charges and impeachment, I now present a resolution setting forth specifically? facts, circumstances and allegations with a view to their consideration by a committee of the House and by the House itself to determine their truth or falsity."

British Bomber Missing, 15 Die In Atlantic Gale

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP)—British warships and royal air force planes searched the English channel today for a British bombing plane with six airmen aboard, missing since yesterday's violent storm which caused at least 15 deaths and widespread damage to shipping.

Lloyds, which received SOS signals from 15 ships, reported several of them were making for home ports. There were no further reports from the others, including the 7230-ton Chilean passenger ship Aconcagua, but there was little anxiety because the weather had moderated.

The Aconcagua, with a crew of 200 and an undisclosed number of passengers, reported Sunday damaged steering gear left her helpless 200 miles west of Ireland.

The coast guard found a small sailing boat wrecked near St. Ives, Cornwall, with two bodies wearing lifebelts bearing the name "Fosco."

The British steamer Becheville, bound for Oran, passed Lizard early today, putting back to Falmouth with the third officer and four sailors suffering broken ribs. Lifeboats and deck equipment were lost. The storm reached a velocity of 90 miles an hour and caused 50-foot waves.

The British steamer East Wales, bound for Buenos Aires, put back to Falmouth because of injuries among her crew and the loss of lifeboats.

Svend Pii a Danish vessel of 1800 tons, with a crew of 25, limped into the same port. The 4652-ton Greek ship Avra was being towed to Brest, France.

RESCUE STORY—Radio Officer Pat Chapman of the British Cavalier tells his wife of his adventures shortly after the Esso Baytown brought him and nine other survivors of the ill-fated plane to New York city. Chapman sent out the SOS flash that brought help.

EUROPE TODAY

BARCELONA—Insurgents, crushing defenses, shell city; bitter cold as government agencies, refugees flee to north; U. S. citizens to be evacuated by warship. (Story on Page 6).

PARIS—France plans for arrival of half million refugees from Spain. (Story on Page 7).

LONDON—Stocks plunge as wild rumors sweep Europe; Britain plans civilian overall army of six million men for use in emergency. (Story on Page 7).

Cable Saves 6 In Auto Plunge

LOVELAND, Col., Jan. 24 (INS)—Six persons—three girls and their escorts—were alive today because a cable wound itself about their automobile, preventing a 100-foot plunge over an embankment on a highway west of Loveland.

The car, driven by Howard Henderson, 18, of Fort Collins, failed to negotiate a turn. It careened into four concrete posts, joined by a cable around the curve. The poles gave way at their bases.

The machine, traveling at high speed, plunged forward into space, overturned in midair and wound the cable about it. No one was hutr.

Stocks Go Up, Down, Up—

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—The stock market today was a fretful affair.

Early dealings saw advances of $1 to $2 a share in prominent issues. A mid-day selling flurry—with the ticker falling as much as five minutes behind — cancelled these gains, and sent several leaders $1 to $2 below yesterday's close.

The flurry, attributed by some to selling orders from Europe, was quickly over, there was a comeback in some sections, and early afternoon saw a mixture of net gains and losses.

WIDOWED survivor of the sea crash of British airliner Cavalier, Mrs. J. Gordon Noakes, is rushed to the hospital as tanker Esso Baytown, the rescue ship, docks at New York. She received great shock when she saw husband lose grip on life belt and sink beneath water.

AIRLINER DISASTER MYSTERY TO SAVED

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Why the luxurious British airliner Cavalier crashed at sea with the loss of three lives remained a mystery today as ten survivors described how they sang and shouted to keep their courage alive until their epic rescue.

They told the story of an 11-hour ordeal spent clinging to life belts in the Atlantic wastes—a chronicle of gallantry with both comic and tragic overtones—after receiving a hero's welcome on their arrival here.

The ice-encrusted tanker Esso Baytown, which snatched them from a watery grave Saturday night after the world had all but given them up for dead, was surrounded by whistling tugs as it plowed up the choppy channel.

2 WOMEN GRIEVE

Of the five men and five women survivors only the widows of two of the victims—Mrs. Donald Miller of Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. John Gordon Noakes of New York —showed evidence of strain. Mrs. Noakes fainted. Weeping, she was taken to a private hospital. The others refused medical treatment.

The survivors' jubilation on their arrival was reflected in the faces of the members of the Baytown's crew who rowed a lifeboat to their aid after they heard cries in the stygian night.

REUNION ON SHIP

"We were without stars, moon or sextant—in complete darkness," said Stanley Taylor, a seaman who stood in the lifeboat's bow. Taylor is a Charlestown, Mass., boy.

"And then the whole crowd of them started singing. We listened and the sound guided us to the spot."

Pretty Mrs. George Ingham of Hamilton, Bermuda, said the survivors had agreed to hold a reunion Saturday on the liner Monarch of

93-Pound Wife Faints Listing Marital Woes

Hardly had she finished testifying today in Middlesex probate court to suffering fainting spells than tiny Dayer Rylee Dunn, former vaudeville actress and divorce plaintiff, collapsed in court.

The 93-pound beauty, seeking a divorce from Irving Dunn, manager of the Crown Theater, Lowell, slumped to the floor in a faint as she was passing to the spectators' section after being dismissed from the witness stand.

Court attaches and spectators rushed to her aid, and she was carried to an anteroom, where a doctor worked over her for 20 minutes before she was revived.

NO CLOTHES FOR HER

The dramatic incident climaxed testimony in which she charged that her husband "paid $2.50 each for his neckties, nothing for me."

For more than an hour she was on the witness stand, and during that time she testified:

"My husband has bought me no clothes since we were married in 1932. A bill of $60 for clothes he once said I myself could buy is still unpaid.

"When we separated, I received $7 a week. Then he cut it down to $5, then to $1 and then to nothing.

"Last August I went to the hospital for an operation. I was there about a month.

SISTER FEEDS HER

"I had no money when I went there. I had no money when I came out. The hospital bill is still unpaid."

Asked who bought her food, she replied that any food she got was supplied by her sister.

"When I went into the hospital," she testified, "I weighed 108 pounds. When I came out, I weighed 93¾. Now I weigh only 93."

All her husband ever gave her personally in the line of clothing, the tiny wife said, was three pairs of stockings. Sometimes his relatives gave her cast-off clothing, she declared.

Much of his money, according to her testimony, went on the horses, at Narragansett and Rockingham, where he attended nearly every day.

COULDN'T HOLD NEEDLE

At one time, in hope of supporting herself, she thought she would be a milliner, she said, but she was so nervous she could not hold the needle.

"Only last week," she said, "I began to take weak spells and now I am being treated for them."

It was only shortly after this testimony that she was excused from the stand—to take half a dozen steps and then collapse.

Yesterday the frail wife brought drama into the case when she rose and pointed a finger at a girl in the audience and identified her as "the other woman."

She said the girl was a "Miss Spillane," who went around with Dunn while his wife was in a hospital.

Later, she testified she trailed her husband and "Miss Spillane" one night, saw them purchase liquor at a package store, followed them until they entered a house in Marlboro street.

SAW LIGHTS DOUSED

She swore that from where she stationed herself she could see them drinking, then the shades went down in one room, the lights went out in another.

They went in at 10:45 p. m., she told the court, and had not left when she got tired of her vigil and quit at 4 in the morning.

Identification was dramatic. Her attorney, Morton M. Lewis, asked her if the woman going about with her husband was in the courtroom.

Mrs. Dunn said she was, and that her name was Miss Spillane. Lewis asked if Miss Spillane would stand up, and Miss Spillane did. Asked if that was the other woman, the wife said:

"She most certainly is."

TRAGIC—Officer James McPhee of Brighton helps Kenneth McGowan to put on his shoes . . . after boy's mother was seriously beaten in the kitchen of her home.

MRS. LETTY McGOWAN

MOTHER OF THREE BEATEN IN HER HOME

While her three children lay terror-stricken in their beds, Mrs. Letty McGowan, 38, of Alcott street, Brighton, was brutally beaten today in the kitchen of her home.

The woman's husband, Terence McGowan, 40, Boston fireman, was not at home when police arrived and found her unconscious on the floor.

Two patrolmen met him later when he reported for work at Ladder 14 firehouse in Brighton. He accompanied them to the police station to assist in the investigation, but was unable to give any helpful information, police said.

Mrs. McGowan was employed by Harvard University as a chambermaid.

The three children are Frances, 12; John, 9, and Kenneth, 7. They were awakened from sleep at 2:30 by their mother's screams.

Frances found her lying unconscious in a pool of blood, and ran five blocks to get help. She sounded a citizen's alarm.

Police who responded found the kitchen a shambles. They said the woman had been beaten on the head with kitchen utensils.

Mrs. McGowan was taken to City Hospital, where at first it was feared she would die.

Alone in the house after the tragic affair, the three children were fed by officers of the Brighton station, dressed and made ready for school.

Truck Fire Kills Weymouth Man

A young Weymouth husband, the father of two children, died today in flaming wreckage of an auto truck he was driving from Boston to New York.

The victim was John J. McNamara, 27, of Washington street, Weymouth. The accident occurred near Guilford, Ct. Police said a trailer, attached to the truck, skidded into a power line pole.

Mrs. Margaret McKenzie McNamara, wife of the victim, was somewhere in Boston, shopping, today, when word of the fatal accident was brought to other members of her family.

Comet to Come Close to Earth, But Cheer Up!

Hurtling at terrific speed along its as yet uncharted course, the newly discovered Kozik-Peltier comet will probably come within 30,000,000 miles of the earth, Harvard astronomers announced today.

They explained their estimates must necessarily be tentative since the strange celestial wanderer was first observed the night of January 19.

Danger of the comet actually hitting the earth was discounted by Harvard observatory scientists, although they figured our planet's margin of safety would be narrow, as astronomical figures go.

Gen. Dawes, Wife Wed 50 Years

CHICAGO, Jan. 24 (AP)—General and Mrs. Charles Dawes celebrated their golden wedding anniversary today.

The former Vice-President and Mrs. Dawes arranged no special observance. Tonight there will be a "wedding" supper for members of the family and a few intimate friends.

Lily Pons Ill With Influenza

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Lily Pons, Metropolitan Opera soprano, was ill with influenza today, but her condition was reported by her physicians as not serious.

Rain, Snow Tonight, Then Zero Weather

Rain and snow, a slushy postlude to the bitterest cold snap of the season, are scheduled for this afternoon and tonight, with a sharp return to much colder temperatures due from middle Canada tomorrow.

Poor visibility today hampered airplane operations and slowed shipping, but tomorrow is scheduled to be brisk and clear.

Temperatures by tomorrow afternoon are expected to be between 10 and 14 degrees above zero. A heavy snowfall was predicted for northern New England, with temperatures tomorrow which may go as low as zero.

Southerly winds drove the temperature up last night and this morning from a year's record reading of 4.3 yesterday morning to well above freezing.

Tobin Swaps Ball Tickets For $1500

Mayor Tobin, as honorary chairman of the committee for the President's birthday ball next Monday night in the Boston Garden, today traded a hat filled with tickets for a $1500 check.

The tickets, of course, were for the ball, and the check, representing the donations of the Boston Navy Yard personnel and workers, will go to the infantile paralysis fund.

Patrick J. Byrnes, chairman of the Navy Yard committee, with Postmaster Peter F. Tague, chairman of the ball, presented the check to the mayor in his office.

ACTRESS RECOVERING

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (INS)—Miss Erin O'Brien-Moore, actress who was burned on the face, arms and legs when a carelessly thrown match set her dress aflame in a restaurant, was reported in a satisfactory condition today at the hospital.

FUGITIVE GUN-GIRL CRIES DEATH THREAT

"It's a lady," a Somerville man was told, as he was called to the telephone today.

But the feminine voice that came over the line was chill and menacing.

"This is Ruby," it said. "I jammed out of Salem jail and I'm blowing the town. But before I go, I'm going to 'get' you, you two-timing squealer!"

According to police, the voice was that of titian-haired Mrs. Ruby Eaton Butts, former Charlestown "gun-girl."

She "walked out" of Salem house of correction last night where she was a trusty, working in the sheriff's home.

JITTERY AFTER THREAT

Twice previously she had escaped from the women's reformatory at Sherborn, but at Salem she was reported to have "turned over a new leaf."

She told state officials she was going to go straight, and they believed her.

Today they were less optimistic.

And the Somerville man, who received the telephone threat, was admittedly jittery.

At the time pretty, 28-year-old Mrs. Butts was last arrested, she had a loaded, 38-caliber revolver in her handbag.

That was last summer. She was promptly jailed for violation of parole and was sent to Sherborn to finish an unexpired term.

SOUGHT HER TRANSFER

Her transfer to Salem was made a few months ago, at her own request.

"I can reform myself if I don't have a lot of psychologists and social workers snooping on me," she said.

But when she saw the jail gate open she made a successful bid for freedom sauntering out in her role as trusty without being halted.

First trace of her obtained by police came through the threat telephoned to the Somerville man.

He told authorities he believed Mrs. Butts mistakenly blamed him for her arrest for gun-toting.

Not he but a Charlestown man was the actual "squealer" police said.

After being picked up with the gun, Mrs. Butts allegedly said she took it from the automobile of a cafe owner who had a permit to keep it.

In spite of his belief Mrs. Butts "had him wrong," today's threat-victim was watching his step, he told police.

DISLIKED SHERBORN

Mrs. Butts' two Sherborn escapes were back in 1936 and 1937.

In October, she wrote such a touching appeal for a chance to make good at some other institution that department of correction officials decided she should have another chance.

"I'm going straight now," she declared gratefully at the time of her transfer.

"I used to be called the Mae West of Charlestown but it never got me anything. The cops were smarter than I was, I found out, and now I'm going to stage a comeback.

"SPOILS YOUR LOOKS"

"I'd rather reform myself and I can do it here at Salem jail without anybody trying to analyze me. I want to give all girls the lowdown on how to go straight.

"Keep away from booze and fellows with easy money."

"Liquor spoils your looks and dulls your judgement. I'm through with them both."

Actor Andy Devine Father of New Son

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 24 (AP)—That rasping, squeaky voice of Comedian Andy Devine became a harsh whisper at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital today.

For a seven-pound boy was born to Mrs. Devine. The mother and child were reported doing much better than the screen and radio actor, who also is the mayor of Van Nuys. They have another son, Timothy, four.

WARD'S NEW SON—Proving himself a typical boy, Michael J. Ward, Jr., of Brighton refuses to eat his porridge without coaxing . . . and the former senator's wife is there with the blandishments. The two-year-old boy has become the foster son of the couple.

Melrose Man Victim Of Mystery Attack

His skull fractured in a mysterious beating by an unidentified assailant, who carefully placed his unconscious victim in a snow-covered highway, Philip Ansell, 38, Melrose landscape architect, has been near death at Melrose Hospital the past three weeks, it was revealed today.

Intermittently conscious, Ansell has been unable to tell what happened. It is now believed that he will recover.

Ansell, who lives in Vine street, Melrose, is married and the father of a small daughter.

On the night of the beating Ansell was seen at 6 p. m. at a West Peabody restaurant. He was next seen, near 11 o'clock, at a Lynnfield club.

He was observed to display considerable money and bought drinks for several guests of the club, police said.

Next some of the guests observed that he was in a quarrel with an unidentified man.

Persons present at the club did not remember Ansell's departure. He was next seen by Eldridge Russell of Lynnfield lying unconscious in the snow in Main street, Lynnfield, at 11:30 p. m.

Russell carried Ansell into a nearby house, where Dr. George S. Robinson was called to administer treatment.

Police were called, and Patrolman William Foley of Lynnfield responded. He questioned Ansell but the man was dazed and unable to give clear answers. After treatment Dr. Robinson took Ansell home.

The next morning he collapsed. Removed to the hospital, he was found to have a bad skull fracture.

MYSTERY IN ATTACK

Russell told Patrolman Foley that it appeared Ansell had been placed in the road to make his injuries appear to have been caused by a hit-and-run automobile accident. He said:

"It's lucky he wasn't run over, the way he was lying in the road."

Foley said:

"It looked to me as if Ansell was brought to the scene where he was found by an automobile, and just laid in the road.

"His clothes weren't torn and he wasn't scratched, as he would probably have been if he'd been thrown from a car. Also, the snow wasn't marked as it would have been if he'd been thrown out.

"There was no automobile near. The scene is very dark and unlighted, and it's lucky he wasn't run over by somebody who didn't see him."

Ansell's car was found 3½ miles away, in Water street, Wakefield, next day.

Mrs. Ansell said today:

"I have no idea who would want to harm my husband. He has no enemies that I know of."

She referred further questions to her attorney, Warren Killam, Melrose.

New Ward Baby? He's 2 Years Old

It isn't so much fun around the house without a youngster to make things interesting—and so now the Michael J. Wards of Brighton are three.

But the "blessed event" didn't come to pass exactly the way scores of friends thought.

The former state senator and his wife have taken a sturdy, two-year-old gentleman as their foster-son.

Today, with Laddie and Lassie, the family Scotties, the newest Ward made his bow to the press.

Michael, Jr., came into the lives of the senior Wards last Friday when, after observing him for some time, they said, "Well, why wait any longer, because we both want him?"

The ex-senator had been supervising the outfitting of a playroom, complete with Mickie Mice, Ferdinand the Bull, trains, toy cars and the rest.

Michael is a typical boy, who refuses his porridge and everything until coaxed. He talks—but only when he feels like it. A reporter learned that.

Since friends of the Wards have learned of the arrival of a youngster at the Wallingford road house the telephone has been ringing busily.

The callers were very perplexed when told that Louise was out shopping. Well, here's the answer.

Hold 2 on Mail Swindle Charge

Charged with fraudulent use of the mails in an alleged $50,000 Boston stock swindle, Lionel L. Morneault, Saco, Me., and Alexander V. Wilson, Jr., formerly of Pittsfield, were held in $1000 each in federal court today.

They pleaded not guilty.

Assistant U. S. Attorney George F. Garrity told the court the defendants were salesmen for Commercial Bankers, Inc., formerly of Boston. The firm collapsed in 1937.

Its president, William E. Willard of Memorial Drive, Cambridge, was indicted last summer. He is out on bail of $5000.

3 Held for Trial In Bankruptcy Case

Secretly indicted for alleged conspiracy to violate the bankruptcy law in connection with $32,000 assets of a Cambridge furniture company, Nathan Saltman of Brookline was held in $5000 in federal district court today.

Held in $1000 each on the same charge were Isadore and Frederick Saltman of Franklin.

DIVORCE EXPLAINED BY WALTER O'HARA

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 24—Walter O'Hara, involved at the moment in one more attempt to regain control of the Narragansett race track, wanted it distinctly understood today that the cruelty for which Mrs. Cle O'Hara obtained a surprise Nevada divorce was purely of the "mental" variety.

And, further, he asserted, the property settlement given to her is not, as reported from Nevada, $750,000, plus Pawtucket real estate. He evaded naming an exact sum, but other advices fixed it at payments of $70 a week until a total of $7500 has been paid.

O'Hara further declared that stock in the track, reputedly held in Mrs. O'Hara's name, has been returned to him.

TROUBLE SINCE AUTUMN

The divorce suit was secretly filed and heard. The decree was granted at Carson City, where Mrs. O'Hara had assumed the name of O'Brien, to throw reporters off the track. However, it was not unexpected by those familiar with O'Hara family affairs.

Trouble was reported to have started in November, following a radio broadcast by Mrs. O'Hara in support of her husband's unsuccessful candidacy for governor.

MRS. CLE O'HARA
Divorces Race Track Promoter in Nevada

Seven weeks ago police were called after a family row, and police protection was assigned to her. Because Nevada law requires a residence period of six weeks, Mrs. O'Hara left for there almost immediately after. She was represented by Attorney Sidney Robinson of Reno.

"Mrs. O'Hara's head is high," he said for her, over the long-distance telephone today. "She will soon return home, and resume her usual life."

PLANS NEW RACE FIGHT

Grounds were given as "extreme cruelty" by the attorney, who refused to discuss them further. The papers have been sealed.

The O'Haras were once models of devotion, she serving as chatelaine in the famed "penthouse" living quarters built by O'Hara for himself over the Narragansett track clubhouse.

She was referred to as "The Princess," and, once, when her pet Boston bulldog was lost, her husband circularized every police department in the country, offering a reward of $1000.

The dog was found near their home a few days later and was returned unharmed. He is now with a friend here.

O'Hara is a principal in a fight at the moment to force a stockholders' meeting to determine control of the racetrack. His demand was turned down yesterday, and he was quoted today as saying he would carry his fight to the courts.

He claims to control a large part of the stock, enough to oust present officials.

NOTED QUAKER DIES

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP) — Edward Grubb, 85, a leading member of the Society of Friends and grandson of Sarah Lynes Grubb, famous Quaker preacher, was dead today at his home in Hertfordshire.

Oust 80 WPA Sit Strikers

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Eighty dismissed WPA employes conducting a sit-down were forcibly ejected from the Federal Music Theater early today in a melee in which six demonstrators were slightly injured.

They were carried out bodily by 50 federal guards on orders from Paul Edwards, WPA fine arts projects administrator. Police refused to eject them.

2 Held in Florida In Hammer Murder

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 24 (INS)—Two men have been arrested in Jacksonville at the request of Indianapolis authorities investigating the hammer murder of Mrs. Carrie Lelah Romig, 55-year-old wealthy Indianapolis woman.

Those taken into custody, Thomas D. Reed and Burton Edwin Morgan, agreed to waive extradition and return to Indianapolis.

Girl to Graduate In Hospital Bed

CHICAGO, Jan. 24 (INS) — Doctors and nurses will replace schoolmates in the audience as 16-year-old Jeanette Defronsca is graduated from high school tomorrow.

Ill in a hospital for the past six months, the girl was unable to attend the regular exercises scheduled in the school auditorium Thursday night, and a special ceremony was arranged to be held at her bedside.

Widow Wills Cash for Floral Tributes to Kin

With the exception of several public bequests, the entire estate of Mrs. Alice Moen Childs of 121 Bay State road, Back Bay, is left to relatives, according to a will filed today in Suffolk probate court. She died January 17.

Mrs. Childs was the widow of Arthur E. Childs, former president of the Columbian National Life Insurance Company, who died in 1933.

The will leaves 7 per cent of the residuary estate to Mrs. Roberta Wiley Childs, ex-wife of Philip Moen Childs of Winchester street, Winchester, only son of the testatrix, as long as she refrains from marrying again.

FILED BY DAUGHTER

The will was filed in behalf of Mrs. Muriel Childs Whitney of Prescott street, Cambridge, only daughter of Mrs. Childs, who asked to be appointed executrix.

Philip Childs is given $5000 and a share of the residuary estate, and Mrs. Whitney is given $12,500 and a share of the residuary estate. The remainder of the estate goes to grandchildren and other relatives.

Among the public bequests are the following: $2000 to the Congregational Home Missionary Society, $2000 to the Hampton Normal Agricultural Institute of Hampton, Va.; $1000 to the Mission Populaire Evangelique de France, of Paris, and two bequests of $300 each to the Old South Church, Copley square.

INCOME FOR FLOWERS

The income from one of these is to be used to display flowers on the Sunday nearest November 20, anniversary of the birth of the late Sophie Moen, sister of Mrs. Childs.

Income of the other is for the display of flowers on the Sunday nearest November 9, anniversary of the death of Mrs. Childs' husband.

Mrs. Childs was the former Alice Grant Moen of Worcester, married in 1894.

Nazis Bar Priests In Salzburg Schools

SALZBURG, Germany, Jan. 24 (AP)—Nazi officials forbade Catholic priests to give religious instructions in Salzburg schools, delegating Catholic laymen to handle the classes.

The action was said to have been taken because the Catholic archbishop, Dr. Sigismund Schulz, declined to replace a priest whom the Nazis accused of "misusing religious instruction for political purposes."

MRS. RICHARD BERLIN

Richard Berlins Speeding Home

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24—Homeward bound on the skyways and eager to get back to work, today was Richard E. Berlin, executive vice-president of the Hearst magazines and his bride, the former "Honey" Johnson.

While the couple was anxious to return to their New York home, both showed reluctance at leaving California as they boarded a TWA sky chief at Union terminal.

Married in Bronxville, N. Y., December 21, Mr. and Mrs. Berlin arrived here three days later. After a few days as guests of William Randolph Hearst at his San Simeon ranch the pair embarked for a two weeks visit at Honolulu.

BARCELONA TOTTERS, INSURGENTS AT GATES

HENDAYE, France (at Spanish Frontier), Jan. 24 (AP)—Spanish Insurgent forces today announced encirclement of the town of Gava, seven miles from Barcelona proper, and said the Spanish government capital was under direct fire of their artillery.

While Generalissimo Franco's column driving along the coast from the southwest bore down on its objective and Insurgent inland forces converged on the city from the west Barcelona was being evacuated by government ministries and the civilian population.

The government armies, however, remained before the city, defending it to the last.

CITY BOMBED 6 TIMES

To reach Gava the Insurgent forces surged up the Mediterranean coast from the conquered port of Tarragona. Gava is the site of an American Radiator Company factory taken over by the Spanish government early in the war.

Insurgent bombers flying ahead of the land forces raided Barcelona repeatedly.

Before noon the city had been bombed six times.

A hail of bombs crumbled entire blocks of buildings and took many victims, but the capital remained calm, dispatches said.

Franco's big guns began hurling shells into Barcelona a month and a day after the Insurgent chieftain launched his great "win the war" offensive from lines 80 miles west of the government capital, largest city of Spain.

INSURGENTS RUSH AHEAD

Today's sharpest advance on Barcelona was that from the southwest, where Insurgents surrounded Gava after passing the seashore heights of Garraf. General Yague's Moroccan army corps led the drive in this sector.

West of Barcelona Insurgent dispatches said Navarrese troops crossed the Llobregat river where the government had established a defense line. These reports declared that all the Llobregat fortifications had fallen.

Government Ministries Fleeing Barcelona

BARCELONA, Jan. 24 (AP)—Many government ministers left Barcelona for the north this morning while the capital, pounded by bombs and with public services failing, became a military camp.

With an icy wind blowing, refugees crowded streets leading out of the city. Bombs crashed from the skies at brief intervals.

Government departments began withdrawing from the city despite the cabinet's recent announcement that it would remain in Barcelona.

United States Vice Consul Douglas Flood said today the U. S. S. Omaha would evacuate about 20 Americans from Barcelona tonight or tomorrow morning.

(Previous reports said approximately 120 of the 150 Americans in Barcelona had decided to remain in the government capital.)

U. S. Fighters Set to Flee

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 24 (AP)—The "lost legion" of foreign volunteers who formerly fought with the Spanish government, including 104 Americans, were rushed from Barcelona toward the French border today.

Finnish General Jalenler, of the commission superintending evacuation, said the group would cross by road into France tomorrow. The group includes the Americans, 350 Canadians and about 50 Englishmen.

Catholics Ordered To Pray for Jews

ROME, Jan. 24 (INS)—A Vatican decree ordered Catholics throughout the world today to pray for the welfare of persecuted Jews.

Commenting on the occasion, Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican, said:

"The Jews have been weighted down throughout the centuries by the gravity of a divine tragedy.

"Remembering to redeem sinning humanity, our Saviour chose to take human form from a Jewish virgin in order to teach the world His doctrine. He chose Palestine and had for His collaborators 12 sons of that race.

"Let us therefore implore Him to look with mercy on His sons and His crucifiers whom He pardoned on the cross so His redeeming, comforting light may shine in their soul in this hour of trial and suffering."

The Vatican decree brought further tension between it and the governments of Germany and Italy, both of which have instituted strong measures against Jews.

Official reaction to the decree in Rome was withheld pending consideration by Premier Mussolini.

OVERALL ARMY FOR BRITAIN

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Great Britain announced plans for an industrial "overalls army" of 6,000,000 men today as the Insurgent advance in Spain intensified European concern over what ultimate consequences may arise from the civil war.

The government through the ministry of labor called the scheme one of "selective recruitment," by which workmen between 18 and 64 would in war time be placed in "reserved occupations"—the munitions, defense and public service industries.

The list takes in about half the male working population of the country, but roughly 3,000,000 are over 45. Only about one in five of men aged 18 to 25 is affected.

Jitters Sweep Europe; Many Rumors Denied

LONDON, Jan. 24 (INS)—Jitters reminiscent of those which gripped Europe before the Munich four-power "peace" agreement attacked the old world again today and were felt even as far afield as India.

Stock markets opened lifelessly. Observers here based wordless fears on these points:

1—Imminent fall of Barcelona.

2—Possibility France may be stampeded into a major move of intervention in Spain's civil war such as occupation of the island of Minorca, or reopening of the Pyrenees border.

3—Berlin reports (officially denied) that spring maneuvers may begin February 15.

4—Rumors regarding calling up of Italian reservists (also officially denied).

5—Continued underground rumors of alleged internal unrest in Germany.

6—Rumor in Lausanne that Field Marshal Goering of Germany had been assassinated.

7—Rumor in London that 100,000 German troops had arrived in Italy.

Italy Prepares For Crisis in Spain

LONDON, Jan. 24 (INS)—The London Daily Herald, in a dispatch from Rome, said today Italy is taking emergency military steps to meet any crisis arising out of the victorious insurgent campaign in Catalonian Spain.

The military precautions include the calling up of nearly 200,000 Italian reservists, according to the Herald.

France Waits Refugee Rush

PARIS, Jan. 24 (INS) — The French government today took steps to cope with the largest mass immigration of war refugees in modern history, expected to flood the French-Spanish frontier if Barcelona falls into the hands of Insurgent Generalissimo Franco.

Between 250,000 and 500,000 men, women and children are expected to attempt to cross the border from government Spain into the French department of the eastern Pyrenees. Border towns reported that large-scale immigration already had begun.

Problems presented by the mass influx of homeless refugees were discussed today by Premier Daladier in conferences with Foreign Minister Bonnet and Albert Sarraut, minister of the interior.

Heavy reinforcements were sent to gendarmerie stations, army posts and mobile guard headquarters on the border to maintain order and to cope with such urgent tasks as feeding the refugees.

Nearly 10,000 extra men have been rushed to the frontier to swell the already large forces of regular police, soldiers, gendarmes and mobile guardsmen patrolling the entrances into France from Spain.

Steps have been taken to have refugees sent to "tent cities" which engineers of the French army are building.

RADIO MAN TELLS OF RESCUE

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (INS)—In his own story, copyrighted by the Journal-American, Radio Operator Patrick W. Chapman of the luxury flying-boat Cavalier told today of the events that followed dispatch of his last message—"Sinking" — from the submerging ship.

His story follows:

It all happened so quickly — in less time than it takes to tell. I was on the radio, and I didn't realize we were sinking until I looked around. I could get no more radiation, and the batteries and motors were under water.

When we landed the sea was terrible. Terrific waves bucked us about. We bobbed up and down. The bottom of the boat must have been completely stove in.

PLANE SINKS FAST

But I run ahead of myself. Before that Captain M. R. Alderson had come to me. I had been sending messages.

"We're sinking!" shouted the captain above the roar.

I thought I'd better get that message off quick. I felt that rescuers would be looking for a plane. I wanted them to know they would have to search for heads bobbing up and down in a rough sea.

I had just about gotten the message through when everything was shut off. There was nothing more I could do. The water was over the transmitting supply. The body of the Cavalier was completely submerged.

The water had come through the main doors with a terrific rush. They had been ripped wide open.

It was then that I saw a seat cushion, a life preserver, floating. I also saw one of the passengers, Charles Talbot, slipping away.

At the same moment the co-pilot spied him, too, and together we pulled him back to temporary safety.

WOMEN PROVE COURAGE

There was no panic. I cannot tell you all that happened, but I know that the captain kept issuing orders.

"Keep everyone together," he kept shouting so that he could be heard.

We acted automatically. There was no time to stop and think. Nellie Smith, a passenger, was churning in the water. She put her hands out toward me and I helped her onto a lifebelt.

For fifteen minutes we were able to keep aloft on the wings. But soon they were gone. I turned around and saw the strangest sight I have ever seen. The ship was breaking in half.

Everything was gone now and there we were in the water. It was not cold. Nevertheless it was a shock. But the women were cheerful. I want to tell you about those women.

DEATH TAKES TOLL

There was Edna Watson. She comes first. There was Katharine Ingham and Nellie Smith and they kept calling:

"Let's tell stories."

And with cheery spirit we all kicked about until we were grouped together.

That was the time I saw a passenger with a gash in his head. He was completely covered with blood and he lay limp on the life preserver. That man was J. Gordon Noakes, and his wife never left his side.

Then someone remembered about Donald Miller; recalled they had seen him jump when the sea flooded the plane; saw him clinging with one hand to a preserver. Someone said they saw him strike the side of the plane, his head crushed in.

One gone and there we were. I looked at my watch. It was still running. It said 1:20.

NIGHT AMID SQUALL

Then nightfall, and a squall. The skies were overcast and we strained for the sound of a plane. I felt there was no hope of approaching coastal craft.

But I knew we had gotten a message to Pan-American station. Twice one of us imagined he heard a plane. But I never heard one.

And then the sight of the blood-drenched man again. He was unconscious now and his wife was holding him up. A short time later some one said:

"Two gone."

Three-quarters of an hour later Spence was acting queerly. He was wide-eyed. His eyes were glassy. He started thrashing his head about in the water.

He tried to put his head under water and the co-pilot was doing his best to stop him. Then he was still. Richardson felt his heart. Later:

"Well, he's gone."

Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Ingham and Nellie Smith, all from Bermuda, were the life of the whole thing. There was a tendency to fall asleep. And that's what we had to guard against.

I thought I saw a shark fin not 10 feet away from our party. But I did not tell anyone. Anyway no one worries about whether it is a shark or not.

All you care about is keeping your head above water.

Suddenly someone shouted:

"There's a light over there!"

We all looked, and sure enough, there it was. Richardson said they were firing rockets. We watched and estimated it must have been seven to 10 miles away.

It was 5:45. Richardson was splashing about to keep the sharks away while the rest were shouting. We heard hoots of the siren. Thank God we've been heard. Everyone murmured a prayer.

We heard the welcome rattle of the life boat. One after the other, we were all taken aboard.

COURAGE runs high in all the Richardsons, as Mrs. Neil Richardson, shown with the first officer of doomed airliner, proved when she flew from Bermuda to New York to be at dock to greet husband when he arrived there. Sea tragedy of flying boat failed to daunt her.

Brookline Man's Story of Rescue

By CHARLES TALBOT

Brookline Harvard Student and Cavalier Survivor

Shortly before the crash, we were cruising at about 12,000 feet. Chief Steward Robert Spence (one of the lost men) came into the passenger cabin and told us to get ready for lunch.

Five minutes later we had dropped 5000 feet and Spence announced:

"We are dropping, the air is too rough here."

The ship came down hard. It hit a huge wave and bounced to another, splitting the hull. In a few minutes the water was up to our knees. Spence had hurriedly distributed life belts, neglecting to take one for himself.

CAUGHT IN SWELL

There was no confusion. Everything was orderly. I cannot compliment the heroism of Steward Spence too highly.

Miller (Donald Miller of Lincoln, Neb., who was drowned) got into the water, was caught in a swell, and carried away from us and under the wing of the plane. Another wave caught him and banged his head against the wing. He never came up.

Noakes (J. Gordon Noakes of Malba, N. Y.), who at the time of the impact had been thrown forward, suffering a bad gash in his head, was held up by Spence for almost three hours.

Noakes and Spence were lost probably because they were too exhausted to stay up any longer.

SHIP PASSED BY

Some of the passengers thought they saw sharks but I didn't. At 8 o'clock we saw the lights of a boat. We screamed ourselves hoarse but it didn't see us.

Then about 10 o'clock we saw the lights of the Esso Baytown. We began to yell, but a strong wind was blowing against us and blew our voices back. Chapman, the radio officer, left the circle, warning us to hold on to each other, and started to swim toward the tanker.

At 11 o'clock the Esso Baytown sighted us and we were picked up.

CRASH OF CAVALIER REMAINS MYSTERY

Bermuda which will carry them to Bermuda, their destination when the accident occurred.

"At no time did I have the slightest fear of ice forming on the craft," Captain M. R. Alderson of the ill-fated Cavalier said in his first interview since his ship went down.

"I have flown through far worse conditions. I can say definitely that ice conditions were not serious on this trip.

"Preparations for dealing with ice on the Cavalier were ample. The exact cause, however, has yet to be determined."

"The ship broke up and sank within 15 minutes after we hit the water. The sea was too heavy to land safely. It was impossible to tell which wave broke in the bottom. We hit the first one with a hard thud and then another.

"The Cavalier always carries as many life preservers as the maximum number of passengers and crew—25 in all. The life preservers are part of the back of the seat. They fit on front and back and are buoyant enough to support three people.

"There were at least nine life preservers for 13 people when we got out of the ship after the crash. There was no trouble about getting the passengers out of the ship."

A board of inquiry will be convened at Hamilton to investigate the disaster—first of its kind in the North Atlantic — Captain Griffith Powell, trans-oceanic flier and executive of British Imperial Airways, announced.

SURVIVORS' STORIES VARY

Survivors varied at many points in their recital of what happened to the three who were lost, but the heroism of four persons—Neil Richardson, first officer; Radio Operator Patrick Chapman, Mrs. Edna Watson of Bermuda, a passenger, and Robert Spence, a steward—stood out in most accounts.

Spence was the third victim. The other survivors were Miss Nellie Tucker Smith of Bermuda and Charles Talbot of Brookline, Mass., passengers, and David Williams, the second steward.

Terror had wiped away details from the memory of most survivors, but most agreed that Miller, president of a Lincoln, Neb., department store, had been struck by a wing of the plane as he floundered in the water, and sank immediately. His wife could not reach him.

Noakes, who was standing when the plane crashed, received a severe head injury. Spence, apparently internally injured, tried vainly to keep him afloat after helping other passengers from the plane and warning them to grab lifebelts.

STORIES OF HEROISM

Captain Alderson said:

"Miller (Donald Miller of Lincoln, Neb., one of the three victims) went first—then the other two died of exposure and they were held up for a long time. They then were let go, there was nothing we could do for them."

Williams said that Chapman and Richardson swam "at least two miles" to attract the attention of the Baytown.

Richardson said: "Chapman and I thought we saw sharks. We could see something lashing about in the water after the three people had gone down.

"As to the cause of the accident there was some trouble with the engines but we don't know what it was."

Richardson quoted Mrs. Watson as saying, in an attempt to keep up the spirits of the survivors:

"I think it's a lot harder for our people than for us."

CHEERED 'EN ON

He said Mrs. Watson kept up a continual cheerful chatter, exhorting the survivors:

"Come on now, tread water—keep awake, it isn't so bad."

Williams said Mrs. Noakes "begged to go with her husband" after he had slipped beneath the waves.

"She said her heart was gone and she wanted to go, too."

Williams said:

"Both Chapman and I made up our minds to last until morning. We were determined to see our wives and that kept us going."

He said that Talbot, with his bad arm, was "wonderful." Talbot asked for a drink of whiskey on the way down, Williams said, as the Cavalier slanted down from its 15,000-foot level to crash on the water top, and "drank half of it before we struck."

ONLY A MINUTE

"He wants to pay me for it," Williams added with a chuckle.

Mrs. Ingham said a one-minute margin after the crash might have meant safety for everyone.

"Another sixty seconds inside the plane and we could have strapped on our life belts," she said. "Then all of us could have survived."

"The most amazing thing of all," Mrs. Watson said, "was the way that man Richardson kept swimming around us in a circle, keeping us all together, kicking and splashing to keep away the sharks, shouting almost continuously in the hope he would be heard."

Rescuer Writes American Praise for 10 Survivors

Credit for courage and bravery in the rescue of the Imperial Airways plane survivors should go to the rescued and not to the rescuers, one of the latter wrote today to the Boston Evening American.

In a voluntary letter, Stanley Taylor, 20, member of the lifeboat crew from the rescue ship Esso Baytown, said:

"My name is Stanley Taylor. I'm 22 and my home is in Charlestown, Mass. I am a member of the crew of the S. S. Esso Baytown. I was also one of the six sailors appointed to enter the lifeboat to rescue the ill-fated ten from the luxury airliner Cavalier.

"If any credit is to be given, I do believe it belongs to the rescued and not the rescuers. I've never seen such courage and braveness as was shown by those ten people who for ten hours swam about in the ice cold waters of the Atlantic.

"I was on the bow of the lifeboat with a flash light and I could hear them all singing loud. I as I told the mate to change the course the singing became much louder until we at last saw them and hauled them aboard.

"They say the females are the weaker sex, but while all the men were just about passed out, the women kept on singing and laughing and joking with us seamen on the way back to the ship."

WARNS SENATE RELIEF COSTS 'BREAKING U. S.'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (INS)—With a stern warning that the nation faces "danger of breaking down" unless federal costs are curbed, Senator Adams (D.), Colorado, opened debate in the Senate today on the $725,000,000 relief appropriation bill which President Roosevelt wants boosted to $875,000,000.

"We are fearful, some of us, that unless the tendency of appropriations is turned, we are in danger of breaking down," exclaimed Adams, who is chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, which recommended $725,000,000.

The Coloradoan, who has piloted all of the administration's relief bills through the Senate—involving outlays of more than $9,000,000,000—told his colleagues:

"We have reached the place where we must begin to count the cost. No group will suffer more from impairment of the credit of the government than the people who are on the relief roll."

Pick 7th Juror At Hines Trial

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (INS)—With James J. ("Jimmy") Hines putting his personal "O. K." on each juror before he is accepted, the retrial of the Tammany district leader proceeded slowly today.

Juror No. 3, William C. Conger, was chosen this morning.

Not until afternoon was the fourth juror accepted. He was Louis S. Dersey, a manufacturer.

The fifth juror chosen was Percy Green, a salesman. Juror number six was Harry H. Coon, manager of the Holmes Protective Agency.

Seven jurors had been chosen when court was recessed. The seventh was Charles B. Halsey, real estate man.

Business Awaits Hopkins' Plans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Harry Hopkins may present to the business advisory council this week the first broad outlines of his program for improving economic conditions and increasing employment through the co-operative efforts of business and government.

The council meets here Thursday, and Hopkins, who was confirmed by the Senate as secretary of commerce, is expected to take the occasion to submit his ideas for business improvement.

These have not been divulged in detail, even to some of his close associates. He is expected, however, to call for specific attacks on several problems, possibly including friction between business and the government.

2nd Carney Trial Jury Is Chosen

TAUNTON, Jan. 24—With the defense using only two of its 10 peremptory challenges, a jury was drawn in 14 minutes today for the second trial of Mayor Leo E. J. Carney, New Bedford.

He is charged with soliciting a bribe of $25,000, in connection with award of a city garbage collection contract.

This jury will be locked up during the trial. A previous jury was dismissed and a mistrial declared when a member of the panel discussed the case outside the courtroom.

Judge James C. Donnelly told jurors today every effort would be made to relieve the monotony of their confinement.

'Hair Stays Up!' Beauticians Rule

Hair is on the up-and-up despite cafe society, economic depression, and just plain laziness.

Despite cafe society, because, according to Miss Helen Tempelman, mistress of ceremonies at the beauticians congress at Hotel Statler, the cafe bracket is more interested in cocktails than coiffeurs.

Despite economic depression, because, according to Emile Wilkens, of New York, another speaker at the three-day beauty congress, the up-do is more costly than the long bob.

And despite laziness, because it is easier for milady to just let her hair go hang.

"But," and Mr. Wilkens is still speaking, "the hair hanging is bee-u-ti-ful, yes, for the boudoir.

"But Madame wouldn't think of wearing a pretty nightie, or dressing gown on the street, neither should she wear the long bob for public consumption. It is too intimate."

Wilkens and Miss Tempelman both admitted the up-hair-do had not taken with "a bang."

"But," both agreed, "that is the artists' fault. The hair should be cut shorter, and shaped. And not worn piled high in an extreme fashion. It is too much of a shock to milady's system, after the shoulder-length bob."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 16 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Hub Store Heads Study Morning Ban on Parking

Officials of the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Board of Trade met today to consider a ban on all parking before 10 a. m.—latest suggestion of Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty to halt the illegal parking evil.

The police head declared that most all of the present trouble is caused by office workers who bring in their machines to work and then leave them all day on the streets. He stated a ban on all parking until 10 a. m. would eliminate the practice and give shoppers plenty of space when they arrived from 10 a. m. on.

Timilty's recommendation came after a blistering warning to all traffic officers that they must enforce parking regulations or they will be transferred. All traffic sergeants, lieutenants and a captain heard the warning, with only Deputy Superintendent John O'Dea—at home ill—among the missing.

The officers were told that traffic patrolmen must stay at their stations and that the men assigned to tagging duty must pass out the "red tickets" for every violation.

Timilty also said that policemen must halt the practice of driving their own cars to work and then parking them near their traffic stations.

Dies Committee Showdown Near

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—A sharp controversy in the House over continuing the Dies committee on un-American activities appeared today to be headed for a quick showdown.

Some administration leaders who have criticized committee methods in obtaining testimony—particularly that against New Deal agencies and officials—have considered blocking in the rules committee a resolution to extend the investigation.

One committee controversy came to a head today with Representative Thomas, (R., of N. J.), declaring he would ask for impeachment of Secretary Perkins. Thomas based his resolution on the labor department's failure to press deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges.

Roosevelt Asks FCC Reorganization

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt called today for new legislation "to effect a satisfactory reorganization" of the Federal Communications Commission.

In letters to Chairmen Wheeler (D.) of Montana and Lea (D.) of California of the Senate and House interstate commerce committees the President asserted he was "thoroughly dissatisfied with the present legal framework and administrative machinery of the commission."

VIGILANTES DISBAND

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 24 (INS)—Nary a horse has been stolen in the village of Ringoes for the last 40 years and therefore the Ringoes Vigilantes were disbanding today.

960 MEN BLAZE TRAIL TO WHISKEY ECONOMY!

In Dramatic "1,000 Men Survey"—960 Find Old Quaker—Now 3 Years Old—Amazingly Smooth, Mild, Rich in Flavor—Supporting Our Belief That Old Quaker Rivals Many Higher-Priced Brands!

"Um! Real rich taste! Judge it's mighty old by the slick way it goes down," remarked John W. Wise, Somerville Liquor per.

● For every man who enjoys fine whiskey—but also has to watch his pocketbook—here's the cheerfulest news of 1939. Old Quaker . . . now 3 years old . . . ranks with many more expensive whiskies—in taste, bouquet and smoothness! Read why we make this statement. . .

We actually went to 1,000 men—asked them to try Old Quaker and give us their frank opinion. "Smell it!" we said. "Taste it! Take a drink of it! Then say what you think!"

None of these men knew the name, age or price of the whiskey he was trying. Yet, 960 out of the 1,000 were enthusiastic in their praise—found Old Quaker had just about every fine quality a good whiskey can possess.

But—note this fact. Old Quaker sells at a rock-bottom low price!

If you agree with these 960 out of 1,000 men—Old Quaker can probably cut your whiskey bills a third. There's only one way to find out—try Old Quaker yourself!

Dr. Dafoe Advises On New Baby Bath

By ALLAN ROY DAFOE, M. D.
Personal Physician to the Dionne Quintuplets

The bathing of new-born children seems to frighten a great many mothers, judging by the letters I receive.

A normal child may usually be given a full tub bath when [illegible] cord is healed.

A bath shouldn't be given sooner than one hour after the child has been fed, and the mother or nurse should make sure that the room is warm. It is a good idea to close all windows during this bath just in case there is a draft.

It is wise, I think, to wash and dry the face and neck of the baby first; then soap the body and place it in the tub. He can also soap his body well with your hand. Finish the bath quickly and dry gently with a very soft towel.

It is better not to rub the baby with the towel for the baby's skin is very [illegible] You needn't [illegible] oil, vaseline or [illegible]

For the first few weeks the bath should be given at a temperature of about 100, later this can be reduced to 98; after six months the bath should be kept about 95 and after the first year anywhere from 85 to 95 degrees is satisfactory.

When a child is feeble, the daily tub should be completely omitted for it presents a [illegible] exposure and fatigue.

If your child has eczema or any other skin disease [illegible] with soap and water or even with water alone many of [illegible] The Quintuplets were born [illegible] May and it was August when they had their first bath. In fact they were a year old before they had many baths and we always had to be careful of the soap we used.

Many mothers worry about the baby's eyes. Under normal conditions I don't think it is advisable to cleanse the eyes regularly. A great deal of the [illegible] has been stopped since it has become the custom to put a silver nitrate solution in a baby's eyes when it is born.

If you should see pus in your baby's eyes, cleanse with a warm boric solution, then [illegible] and be sure to dry the eyes with a piece of absorbent cotton.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24.—A Warner Brothers scout in the audience Saturday night when "The American Way" by George Kaufman and Moss Hart opened on Broadway immediately offered a top price for the film rights. Top price would be $225,000 for that's what Harry Cohn paid for the privilege of filming "You Can't Take It With You," another Kaufman-Hart play.

Harry and Jack Warner don't hesitate about the amount of money they will pay when they secure one of the hits of The American Way, which stars Fredric March and Florence Eldridge. The play is based on the theory that they start and end every five minutes. A great variety too, for the Marches because their first stage part did a big nose dive. Should Kaufman and Hart accept the Warner offer it would be six months before it could be filmed and then it will star Paul Muni.

Chatted with Charlie Chaplin and his brother Sid at the Chaplin mansion after the fight and it was a great reunion for the two brothers. Their mother, Hetty Chaplin, also was there and I guess the old adage that blood is thicker than water is true for the three of them were tickled pink and having a ball.

Charlie says he wants Sid to play in The Dictator as well as to direct and as the scrap is Paulette Goddard as the vivacious Syd is an important part. Famous Price Brice who is expected to sign a contract this week and of course Charlie in the role of the dictator himself and the famous tramp character who will return the famous Chaplin routine.

Samuel Goldwyn has put in a bid for the loan of Errol Flynn to play one of the outstanding figures of the American Revolutionary War. Major John Andre. I don't need to tell any American that Major Andre was the British spy who was captured and put to death while Benedict Arnold his fellow conspirator escaped to the British lines.

Arnold, who is every American student's definition of a traitor, of course will be one of the principal characters that is, if Sam can find an actor willing to play such a despicable role. Jack Lawrence has written the dramatic story of Andre and it has so captured Goldwyn's fancy he is doing his best to coax Jack Warner to lend him Errol Flynn for the lead.

Barbara Stanwyck is wearing another new piece of the gift of Robert Taylor. This one is made of links and has a diamond ruby and emerald house on a charm. He brought it back to her from New York; the discovery of oil near Marwick Ranch has made Barbara and Zeppo Marxes refuse several offers to sell their property; Johnny (Scat) Davis has been told the stork will deliver twins instead of a solitary bundle.

Joan Bennett, escorted to Sally Eilers cocktail party by Gene Markey and John McClain. When is Joan going back to her natural blonde tresses; the Pat O'Briens intend to celebrate their eighth wedding anniversary with a quiet dinner for two at Victor Hugo's, but when the news got out Dixie and Bing Crosby and the Norman Taurogs moved to the O'Brien table and helped make the occasion a merry one. That's all for today. See you tomorrow.

Ann Corio Adds To Howard Laurels

Ann Corio, one of the most popular burlesque entertainers to come to Boston, is adding to her fan list this week at the Old Howard, where she is presenting a new and better than ever repertoire. Beautiful, an adjective frequently carelessly applied, precisely describes the gorgeous Corio.

In her present revue she has surrounded herself with an all star cast of 40 performers including a chorus of 25 song-and-dance pretties.

Paramount Signs Singing Actress

Muriel Angelus beautiful English singing actress recently seen here in the Broadway hit, "The Boys from Syracuse" (in which she made her American debut), has been given a contract by Paramount and will leave New York for Hollywood to begin film work as soon as the run of the stage play is ended.

'OF MICE AND MEN' THRILLS IN PLYMOUTH PREMIERE

Guy Robertson Heads Cast in Prize Drama

By PEGGY DOYLE

Not since "What Price Glory?" has an audience paid to hear such lusty profanity as John Steinbeck has written into his masterful drama, "Of Mice and Men," the New York Drama Critics' 1938 prize play which finally came to the Plymouth last night.

Unlike the pallidly enunciated swear-words of "American Landscape," the profane and pithy boldness of the Steinbeck dialogue is so thoroughly in keeping with the play's stark tragedy that City Censor Spencer can no more object to it than did last night's appreciative if distinctly circumspect American Theater subscription audience.

As has been said by my betters repeatedly and to far greater effect, "Of Mice and Men" is a play of substance and rare dramatic power. In New York, where it opened in November, 1937, ran through till spring to re-open in the fall and received the silver plaque awarded annually by the Drama Critics' Circle for the season's best play of American authorship, it had the acting skill of Broderick Crawford and Wallace Ford.

• • •

In the leading roles of the oddly assorted bindlestiffs, the hulking Lennie, who isn't very smart and kills things without meaning to, and George, a tough little terrier of a man who tries to keep his pal out of trouble, these two gave performances that were the talk of the town.

Boston is seeing Guy Robertson, recruited from the musical comedy stage, in the role of George and Edward Andrews as Lennie. Tough assignments, these, and handled adequately.

For those of us who thrilled to the sharp incisiveness of Wallace Ford's performance, however, Robertson's portrayal reveals sentimentalizing softness that completely missing from Steinbeck's text.

• • •

Edward Andrews' Lennie, too, fails to reach the dramatic stature prideful Helen Broderick's big boy Broderick Crawford gave it. He's big enough and he's sincere enough but he somehow never elicits your pity for the great, lumbering, crafty creature who likes to pet soft things to the shattering degree Crawford achieved.

Claire Luce, the ex-Follies beauty who was a member of the original cast, is playing the raspberry-blonde tart who would chin with all mankind but who cannot endure her husband with more obnoxious deliberation currently. But her's is still a vivid portrayal.

Other members of the New York cast are John F. Hamilton, Thomas Findlay, Charles Slattery and Leigh Whipper.

Hamilton, as the aging, one-armed field laborer, Candy, who dreads the future and inevitable [illegible] is effective. And so is Thomas Findlay's shrewd, dispassionate boss.

Charles Slattery's Carlson, an older barley-hand who has no truck with sentiment although he is not unkindly, and Grant Mills' Slim, who is a cut above the other bindlestiffs with the exception of George, are excellent. Leigh Whipper as the Negro, Crooks, who also has his moments of loneliness, is especially good in a brief, interlude with Candy.

Eric Donald Oenslager's settings that have captured the natural beauty of California's Salinas Valley, with its descending sun, there must be unstinted praise.

In recapitulation, it should be said that those who were not handicapped by a previous viewing found last night's performance completely satisfactory and all of us found its final tragedy the most thrilling dramatic climax in years.

"SWEETHEARTS" STARS—Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald come to the screens of Loew's State and Orpheum, Thursday, in "Sweethearts," a M-G-M technicolor production. Here Jeanette seems to be doing all the singing.

Star's Gowns In Sketches

Sketches of the stunning gowns and wraps Jeannette MacDonald wears in M-G-M's all-technicolor production, "Sweethearts," opening Thursday at Loew's twin theaters, will be made in Loew's State Theater lobby this week by Winifred Hemenway, style expert and designer for the New England School of Art.

Miss MacDonald's wardrobe for that picture, in which she is co-starred with Nelson Eddy, were created by Adrian.

Miss Hemenway's sketches, made in colors, will be exhibited in a department store window.

THERE IS A mistaken disposition in the United States in which there is a great deal of genuine danger, to attach undue importance to what newspapers in other countries say about the United States.

Newspapers are writing for their individual clienteles and with a realization that they are not the accredited and authorized spokesmen of their countries.

What they say does not have ruling international significance.

However, what the ACTUAL accredited and authorized spokesmen of any government say is of great and formal importance.

The utterances of such spokesmen when abusive of a foreign country lead directly to contentions which might easily result in hostilities.

The United States is particularly plagued by such authorized spokesmen of ITS OWN, who are continually putting needless strain on our relations with other countries, are continually setting up aimless contentions with other countries, and are dully and dangerously leading us in the direction of immediate antagonisms and eventual hostilities.

THEY are the ones we should be concerned about, and to whose utterances we should attach importance and significance.

THEIR loose remarks, abusive and derogatory of other countries, are stirring up contentions and possible war for us.

They should be, and should be MADE to be, more guarded in their loose remarks.

---

MR. ICKES FOR ONE, the loud-mouth piece of the Administration, should be more guarded in his loose remarks.

He and other loose-speaking public officials should realize that they should have dignity and judgment in their utterances and that they do have authority and responsibility in their official positions, regardless of the insignificance of their personal character or competence.

The people of the United States do not want to be represented or to have their government represented, or SEEM to be represented, by a lot of official blatherskites.

The various jackrickes of the Administration should be haltered and muzzled until they learn to express themselves in the usual polite language of diplomacy, and learn to consider the whole nation's welfare and not merely their own cheap, personal political expediency.

We need not be concerned about and cannot be greatly harmed by abusive foreign newspapers.

We SHOULD be concerned about and can be grievously harmed by our own loud-mouthed and loose-mouthed JACKICKES in official positions.

---

THE COMMUNITY FUND campaign, now officially launched, is a crusade against illness, disaster and death.

It is the kind of campaign that appeals to the inner goodness of every man, woman and child.

Like the crusaders of history, marching forth, fired with the zeal of noble purpose, fifteen thousand workers have begun the solicitation of $4,645,000, or $500,000 more than was raised a year ago.

They MUST succeed, for on their success depend the lives and safety of thousands of persons, unfortunately unable to help themselves.

On their success depends also the existence of more than a hundred charitable agencies that carried on valiantly throughout 1938 despite the handicaps of limited budgets.

Every individual in the forty-six cities and towns included in the campaign should consider it his duty to donate as generously as his financial circumstances permit.

He should give, and give to the LIMIT OF HIS MEANS, doubling whenever possible the amount that at first seems reasonable.

Fashion Czars Frown on Derby

By EDWIN C. HILL

DESCENDING into the subway the other day I fell in with an old acquaintance, a rather elegant citizen who seemed just a little out of place in a crowded transportation tube.

I was fascinated by his hat, apparently of remote Bavarian derivation with a feeling of yodeler, a feather and the brim turned off the face upon which it was about a half a dozen [illegible] chins.

As I walked with him I felt as if I were marching in a parade. As we rode uptown there was a row of women on the opposite seat. My friend was staring at them with a look of unutterable distaste.

"What's got you down?" I asked him.

"The freak hats on those women," he said in a voice shaking with emotion. "They ought to be put in jail for wearing hats like that. Look at that headpiece down at the end of the car, and that one right across from us. They hurt me—positively hurt me—like a toothache."

THERE WERE, indeed queer concoctions among the women's hats in the car, with the colonel's lady quite as ridiculous as to headgear as Judy O'Grady. But although I didn't tell him so in his agitation) in its modest way my friend's hat was holding its own among them in fact it was one up on most of the feminine exhibits. He was still fuming when we climbed the exit stairs.

As Bobby Burns said, it's a good thing we can't see ourselves as others see us.

The Hat Style Council is beginning to crack the whip over men for supine conformity in hat styles and especially their reliance on the two old dependable models, the hard hat or "derby," and the fedora. They pick the 12 "best - hatted men of the country," including celebrities of finance, sports and business, and sternly prescribe a minimum of 12 hats for the wardrobe of every man who isn't content to be just an old stick-in-the-mud.

Perhaps the new and revolutionary gayety in men's top-pieces provides a slight salutary break in routine for many but I have an idea law and order will eventually prevail in male headgear.

It's like this. The traditional free-for-all in women's styling allows a lady to dramatize herself any way she pleases. If she thinks she's another Cleopatra, why, my masters, thinking can make it so.

"Yes, madam, the Egyptian suggestion will do excellently for you. This one accents your personality splendidly."

SO THE LADY emerges in her own imagination, as Cleopatra Or maybe she is Alice of Old Vincennes or Janice Meredith or Lola Montez or Mme. Pompadour or Lily Langtry or Maid Marian or any other lovely fulfillment of her dreams.

But just fancy the same leeway for men. I have a friend—and who hasn't?—who has the Napoleonic complex, a N[illegible] library and who collect[illegible] of the Little Corporal. Would the Hat Style Council deal him a Napoleon skypiece and would he dare wear it?

The Brighter Side

Race Horses "Patched" Like Inner Tubes

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright 1939 by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and [illegible])

BACK DOWN the years, a famous turf character named Billy Scully suggested that every race course hold one race a day for aged and decrepit horses, the winner of which was to be branded and permanently retired from racing.

The idea was to weed out the equine unfit with which the racing game was infested then as now. The races were known as "Scully races," after the originator of the idea. This column not long ago in decrying the calibre of some of the horses permitted to race these days, said those elimination races were known as "cully races." We thought the name came from the face that the races were for culls.

It took Daniel E. O'Sullivan to straighten us out on this point. He is the resident manager of Colonel Matt J. Winn's renowned Churchill Downs in Louisville.

In correcting us, Mr. O'Sullivan approves our stand that something should be done to rid the turf of a lot of broken down steeds that you still see galloping valiantly about the race tracks of the land. Indeed, most turfmen of any class approve the idea, not only on humane grounds, but because they believe it would improve the quality of racing and benefit the market for younger and sounder horses.

WE BELIEVE some "Scully races" were tried as an experiment but apparently the plan did not prove popular. Maybe it was not just the right idea to bring about the desired end, though the general theory seems sound enough.

Today there are more racing units in this country than ever before in the American history of the game, for the very simple reason that there are more race tracks. The race tracks must have race horses. The result is that horses that would have been speedily retired in the days when the number of race tracks was comparatively limited, and they could not have won anywhere are now used to make up the programs at the small tracks.

We have heard it suggested that the racing of horses after a certain age should be prohibited, but we do not think age is half as important as the matter of soundness.

IT IS OUR OPINION that a horse that is sound and feeling good likes to run races. True, we never have asked any horses about that, but we so judge from the demeanor of some pretty good race horses of our acquaintance. Therefore, we do not see anything inhumane in the racing of sound horses bar mistreatment at the barrier by the starter's lads, or undue whipping by the jockeys. The average race horse leads a mighty pampered life as against work horses and some humans.

However, it must be torture to a poor horse to be required to race when it is all crippled up. Some trainers keep patching a broken down horse over and over again like an old inner tube and running it until it finally collapses beyond any hope of repair and that is where the inhumanity of the game comes in. It is horses of that type that should be arbitrarily weeded out of racing.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

NIGHT — somewhere around three. The storm raging had now become an cozy hush of black. In the watery glare from the corner lights the rain gleamed briefly then was lifted out. No sound except the plop and drip of water on a hooded car.

The car itself was but a darker blot against the night. But from some source a passing ray of light pierced the drenched pane, disclosed the jagging figure of a slender man bending above a paper on his knee, writing between long lagging gaps.

"My reactions . . . the man wrote. Reactions? The pencil stopped. He fumbled feebly at a tube which ran along the steering rod. Reactions . . . why? What made a fellow want to write about himself at times like this? He coughed, gagged slightly, yanked his other hand . . .

"REACTIONS." He mouthed the word curiously, then continued, talking as he wrote, in the monotonous monotone of a little boy reciting his lessons. "Tell about the me first. " . . . JUST A BIT SWEET . . . NOT TOO FRESH . . . " Maybe that's what was wrong with him. Too sweet. Sappy softy. Just a spoiled kid always. He coughed again, his breath laboring. Then, with an effort, tightened the pencil tighter. Better hurry. Get it down. Tell it so they'd know he'd gotten wise to himself at last.

Adolescence . . . maybe." The letters zigzagged wildly across the page. "Must grow up according to my . . . guess I grew . . . getting trifle dizzy." He raised his face, stared straggly, his eyes quickening. Then, with that strange new grit in his face, wrote "GOING NOW" . . . And then was gone.

AND SO WE'LL let the drunk our New Years toasts. A young man, England's gifted, was beloved but puzzled beyond the hearing went out into the night . . . And some will say it suicide and sneer . . . BUT I AM THINKING THAT THIS MUDDLED LAD TOUCHED SHINING HEIGHTS BEFORE HE WENT AWAY. He may have failed to save himself . . . but in those few scrawled words he left the means of understanding and salvation for us all.

For you have felt just as he did, haven't you? Never sure of yourself . . . always convinced would fail . . . no matter how hard you tried. Always outside the game. Always questioning, always doubting . . . Never once positive that anything was worth while! BUT WHY? Who must Life fail as so?

He'd asked those questions just as you are asking them. And as he wrote that note, he saw the answer.

Life doesn't fail us. WE FAIL LIFE.

TO LIVE . . . TO GROW . . . TO DARE TAKING LIFE AS IT COMES, REGARDLESS OF THE COST . . . that was the right way, and he saw it at the end. TO "GROW UP" that was the one, great law . . . He'd lost the way himself but, dying, he set others on the trail.

MADAME LILLY DACHE, FRENCH STYLE CREATOR AND DESIGNER
Believes British Queen's Visit Will Influence American Fashions

Girl About Town

by MARJORIE McBRIDE

THIS IS WRITTEN expressly for women. But it might well serve as a warning to men!

To be chic this spring women will adopt either the little girl look or the medieval princess type. That is if you follow the dictates of Lilly Dache, creator of those unusual hats.

Miss Dache believes that four important news events in 1939 will influence style . . . the visit of the King and Queen of England to the United States . . . South American political affairs . . . the New York World's Fair . . . the San Francisco Exposition.

Yellow is the latest color fad with pink and green second. Pale blue and a light beige called champagne . . . are important. Purple tones are not as popular as they were.

Instead of straw, exclusively smart hats will be fashioned of colored leather, felt, silk and velvet. Jewels . . . set into the fabric . . . are taking the place of other decorations.

If this seems a little extravagant you'll rejoice, no doubt, in the consolation. Make-up this spring, Dache feels, is to add fragility. Less rouge and lipstick. Feminine loveliness will be the goal.

AN ANCIENT CHARTER containing the clause that the Mill must be ready at all times to grind corn grown on Chelsea farms, is the proud possession of the Stone Company.

From whom you may properly infer that the "Spice Mill on the Mystic . . . near Old Powder Horn Hill in Chelsea . . . is a venerable institution. In point of continuous operation, it is probably the oldest tide mill in the world. There has been a mill on the site for over 200 years.

Tidewater power is still used to grind the spices but a set of the works is now done by electricity . . . more efficient if less romantic.

IT'S A STORY you're telling at Simmons. A student rebukes one of her instructors that she was taking a correspondence course on how to play the cello.

"But it's hard," the girl said, "the point of the instrument keeps sticking into my chin and it hurts."

SOME TIME AGO the Tracksde Museum in Springfield started the policy of lending rats to boys who wanted them as pets. The boys return the rodents when they wish.

Lately a set of trained rats that astonish and even startle the scientists who are studying them as part of serious research

MISS MIDNIGHT'S DIARY (Or, Everywhere I Roam): Saturday I lunch at the Algonquin and afterwards drop in at the matinee of "Knickerbocker Holiday," which is one of the pleasantest shows in town to giggle at the antics of the bloodeyed Walter Huston, and delight in Kurt Weill's lovely music as it is sung by Richard Kollmar, Rex Middleton, and one of the finest choruses of the season. In the evening I make a pilgrimage to the Lincoln Blue Room, which is really an orange and green room, to hear Artie Shaw's band cut the hottest capers in Manhattan.

MONDAY I WALTZ. Sonja Henie opens her ice carnival at the Garden which, when it comes is always one of the best things in town.

Afterwards I go to the Rainbow Room to be judge at the first of the Monday night waltz contests, and I am amazed to find that while my back was turned, the polka has returned to popular favor and is being done like mad by the best people.

TUESDAY A PLAY OPENS. I have dinner at Mon Paris, where it is always a temptation to eat way past theater curtain-time, but I put aside the temptation and dash to see the curtain go up on a little thing called "Where There's A Will," which I very much regretted . . . As an antidote, I dash to the Club 18 where the nonsense of Jack White, Pat Harrington and Frankie Hyers at the triplicate microphones convulses me.

WEDNESDAY IS FOR DEAR NOEL. The Coward review, "Set to Music," which could have just as well, and much more accurately, been titled "Beatrice Lillie Set to Music," opens at the Music Box, to a very fine audience containing three Barrymores, Orson Wells, Louis Bromfield, Leonard Lyons, Walter Winchell, Ed Sullivan, Ben Bernie, Walter O'Keefe, Jack Benny, Mary Livingstone, Fred Allen, Portland Hoffa, Jack Haley, Ethel Merman, Ethel Barrymore Colt, Mrs. Leonard Thomas, Mrs. Jack Dempsey, Mrs. Ed Sullivan, Mrs. Ben Bernie, Mrs. Walter O'Keefe, Mrs. Jack Benny, Mrs. Fred Allen, Mrs. Jack Haley, Mrs. Ethel Merman, Mrs. Leonard Lyons, Mrs. Walter Winchell, Mrs. Orson Wells, Mrs. Louis Bromfield

Spring-Fresh Budget Blouses

By ANNICE BRINK

KNOCK the spots out of winter clothes boredom by adding some of the impudently cheerful polka-dotted or geometric-spotted acetate blouses to standby suits.

In these days when a heavy suit goes under your overcoat to battle icy winds or even, under your sweater for these temptingly tinted blouses act like a flower corsage to your spirits and appearance. They're $2 and a boon to an office budget.

It's pretty hard to find anything fresher looking to wear than these acetates and the colors are a living spur in themselves. The acetate people have a talent for producing clear, high tones that are good for any complexion. Stone grey is like pebbles seen through water, and the rusts and aqua greens are very right hearted.

Stitching outlines the neatness of the monotone acetate which is crepey in contrast to the smooth surfaced polka dot fabric. The colors are brighter and warmer. Dusty pink, the cocoanut white, a pen and the important fuchsia.

FOR SHOPPING INFORMATION on these fashion and budget minded blouses ($2, 34-40) phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, week-days until five-thirty or write her.

If you Can be Beautiful

By ARLINE GOULD

WHEN THE OWNER of a dry or normal skin that has a tendency to crepe and wrinkle peppers it with the lushest creams she can buy . . . tries to find the pore over dosed pores spread open and coarsen her complexion . . . she must stop using fat lime creams and just use the fine astringent counteractive toning lotion.

After every cleansing with cream the lotion should be applied with it fast.

It acts on a dry skin the way pore openers do on the oily complexion.

This is a many forty lotion which actually exercises the pore's puny powers without ever stealing an iota of precious moisture. Alcohol is the major part of any astringent, and this toning lotion doesn't contain a drop. It depends on a secret and exclusive ingredient which "sets" the pores into closing their pores.

Within mere five minutes after the cents have dabbed the lotion on the purplish pores. That fine lines to show a brown look around the chin or below the mouth will feel the exhilarating benefit of the toning lotion. The tightening action not only refines surface appearance of the pores but goes deeper to strengthen tired and worn looking tissues.

They say that the toning lotion's creation was a daydreaming custom. Built at its best when women are jamming their pocketbooks and coming next moves from one city to another not to mention from one continent to another without her complexion bolstering toning lotion.

When traveling, the bottle of toning lotion makes a perfect quick cleanser for at months away the keyed up, weary look.

Once the pores are exercised into closing as tightly as a child's you'll discover that the fragile loveliness which is a thin skin's greatest (and youngest) charm will bloom far longer than you have any right to expect.

Local Banks Rank High on U.S. List

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Eight Boston institutions and 12 in Massachusetts now rank among the 500 largest in the nation. According to the annual Red Cedar edition of the American Banker published today . . . Chief item of interest to depositors and others is the 11 months rise in deposits of the 140 largest banks.

Percentage . . . Percentage increases as follows: First National, 9 National Shawmut, 8; Massachusetts National of Boston, 8; First of Boston and National of Boston safe Deposit & Trust 1st New England Trust 10; National Revere and Hall . . . The Harvard Trust of Cambridge was number 271 . . . the Newton Trust ranked 294 . . . The Third National of Springfield and the Worcester County Trust were numbers 290 and 170, respectively.

Total deposits of the 140 totalled $27,963,134,439 at the end of last year . . . A total of some 11 billions since the 1933 low . . . And as the American Banker points out pertinent evidence that mere volume of deposit money does not of itself stimulate trade and business . . . However most economists and dynamic health of anything the figures clearly indicate that we have the money to power a good expansion are in existence . . .

The Market Analysts . . . Are pondering over the statement put by anxious followers as to whether or not a bear market signal has been given . . . The sudden, breath taking flop of the industrial section to a new low destroyed faith in the entire bull movement . . . And most are prepared for the worst . . . But a bear signal has not been given . . . It will require a break through on the downside by the rails before we accept opinions a long term reversal of trend has taken place . . .

And that means a closing under December, 9 when the previous reaction low of 28.85 was registered by carrier shares . . . Whether or not we should expect this is mere guesswork . . . Domestic affairs indicate no is the answer . . . While the foreign situation is so muddled that few know what to think . . . After all the only real European news of late has concerned the actual changes in German bank leaders . . . All the rest is conjecture . . .

The Gossip . . . Are already talking of another good year for Cluett Peabody . . . They say the company's shirting business has turned up sharply and a great deal of retail interest has been displayed in the new sports lines . . . While it is early for talk this early in the year that 1939 results will be topped . . .

Some of the companies whose fiscal years do not end with the calendar date are under scrutiny . . . The idea is they may have something to discount with the present storm is over . . . One such is Zenith Radio . . . Books close on April 30, and it is said to have done sufficiently well to warrant expectations of about $2 a share . . .

---

Notebook . . . A. M. Byers may be something more than a 1929 memory before the year is out . . . We hear orders during December were the best of the month in the last 10 years . . . And were not localized but from all over the country . . . 1938 operations may show a substantial deficit on the preferred stock . . . But if business continues to develop in the December manner some sort of start toward cleaning up accumulations on the preferred should be made this year . . .

Future of Bank Holding Companies

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (INS)—The current inquiry by the Securities and Exchange Commission into the anatomy and physiology of the Trans-America Corporation, headed by the colorful Californian, A. P. Giannini, raises the larger question as to the future of bank holding companies.

After swinging to excesses in both directions, the pendulum of informed opinion is now moving toward a sensible and balanced attitude. During the boom which culminated in the October, 1929, panic, there was a holding company craze.

In those days it was assumed that the magic of mergers resulted in two and two making five. Then there was a violent reaction, and politicians began to think and say that the holding company was the principal cause of financial evil.

There is a strong probability that there will be bank holding company legislation at the present Congress, but at present it looks as though it will be comparatively mild law making.

The present expectation is that such legislation will tend to freeze existing bank holding company situations, but prevent future growth along similar lines. On the other hand, in government circles, there is a tendency to the opinion that only unscrambling existing eggs.

There is no reason for protecting legitimate companies from strike suits by drastic legislation intending to make capital out of "death sentence" measures. It seems all the more necessary at this time when capital seems reluctant to start banks or buy out existing banks.

As the West Coast organization is defending itself, it is interesting to recall that after during the depression, the principal bank holding company in the Northwest was under steady political fire for three years, with a vast amount of litigation under way. Its constituent banks, nevertheless, not only gained deposits, but gained at a more rapid rate than competitive banks in the same territory.

Evidently bank depositors had more faith and confidence in the local officers and directors of constituent banks than in crusading politicians, who attacked the economics and the morality of the whole structure.

---

Before the Pacific Coast incident is closed the Federal Reserve System would have supervision over bank holding companies is expected to make its own position clear.

---

One of the principal bank holding companies in the Northwest operates 91 affiliated banks, with nineteen branches, serving 97 communities and more than 450,000 depositors in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Montana.

They said the name of the two principal bank holding companies were established in the belief that the new setup would provide greater diversification of risks and superior management

Stock Prices Undergo Fast Changes

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—The stock market underwent a series of violent and confusing changes today that left Wall Street experts baffled and wondering what it was all about. A break come back in the late session brought gains of fractions to a point. Dealings died down and around mid day when Analysts hoped that the ticker tape behind events minutes for a brief interval. Support appeared, how ever, and a fresh recovery move got under way. Activity slackened in the upward reversal and prices were well mixed.

$3,235,709 Profit

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 24 (AP)—The Caterpillar Tractor Company reported a net profit of $3,235,709 for 1938, compared with $10,164,689 in 1937. Deducted for federal taxes was $1,210,646, but no provision for federal surtax on undistributed earnings was included, as dividends paid were in excess of the net profits.

Silence Answer to Cardenas Oil Plan

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (INS)—Major oil companies whose rich fields in Mexico have been expropriated by the Mexican government today maintained a policy of silence on the most recent statement of President Cardenas as to the eventual disposition of their claims.

T. H. H. Knickerbocker, roving reporter for International News Service, Cardenas reported that the legality of the seizure "is no longer being discussed" and that Mexico may enter into long-term contracts with other nations if American and English companies do not buy their oil expropriated.

To that position the answer of the oil companies today was "We will say nothing which might aggravate the situation our case is still pending in the Supreme Court."

It was indicated that the oil companies have no intention of accepting the Cardenas position as final, but pending developments would continue to maintain public silence while pursuing every legal course to end the present situation.

Steel Leader Optimistic On Outlook

CHICAGO, Jan. 24 (AP)—Benjamin F. Fairless of the United States Steel Corporation asserted today that "for business in general the present signs are encouraging."

They are particularly so in comparison with those prevailing throughout the month of January last year," he said in an address prepared for delivery at the convention of the National Canners' Association.

He said a year ago the curve of business activity was "still sloping downward at a most unpromising angle," but that since the middle of 1938 "we have been weaving on a gradually ascending curve . . . until the levels of November and December, 1938, were reached."

"Present indications are that we are still in that part of the recovery cycle within which the physical value of business may rise, or at least hold the gains that have been registered," he predicted.

"Given a fair chance to express themselves, the constructive forces at work in our national economy should outweigh the unfavorable factors, and thus determine our nearby future course."

Stocks Rally In London

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Prices on the stock exchange recovered ground today as dealers decided that yesterday's losses, caused by reports that the European autumn had grown graver, were premature.

After a slow opening, prices picked up under the leadership of transatlantic shares which went higher than yesterday's closing levels.

In the foreign exchange market Netherlands guilders were again lower on sales from Amsterdam where it was rumored there were troop movements on the other side of the German frontier. The guilder rate against sterling opened at 8.64⅜ guilders to the pound compared with yesterday's 8.64⅜ and later declined to 8.67.

The dollar was steady at 4.67¼ to the pound but continental currencies, with the exception of the French franc moved lower in terms of sterling.

Bar Gold Steady

Louis vs. Lewis; or, Game Of Blow-Hot-Blow-Cold

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME FOR JOE LOUIS to fight a bad fight against John Henry Lewis tomorrow night? And isn't it about time for the pugilistic swamis of the press to blow cold again? This has come to be a little game. The experts puffed cold enough to grow a beard of icicles when Max Schmeling hit Louis a flock of right hand busts on the cheekbone two years ago. They heated up cautiously when Louis biffed Sharkey over, and then put on their typographical overcoats when Pastor lasted 10 rounds in a runaway fight. They turned up their heat again when Joe hacked Braddock into a bloody hulk. And when Farr stayed vertical for 15 rounds the refrigeration was stupendous. But they lighted their burners when he busted Schmeling loose from his backbone last June.

AUSTEN LAKE

So where is Louis now? Why he is a lethal leopard, an indiarubber man, the russet-gloved assassin, maestro of mayhem and all that polysyllabic twaddle. And why is that? Because the world of sport knows only what it sees in technical muscles matters. The potentialities of an athlete are only as good as his immediate flow of fortune. And sport opinion, whether lay or expert, fluctuates with success and failure.

Ball Men and Alumni Do It Too

AND DON'T THINK THE BASEBALL MEN are any different. I have known such an astute judge of baseball flesh as the late John McGraw to hustle Freddy Lindstrom to the auction block after a tenday batting slump and yank him off again the evening after he made three hits.

The heel rockers in the fight-hotel lobbies will hem, haw and hedge before a major fight and discourse brilliantly afterward. The college football alumni will howl hallelujahs for their varsity coach after a substitute snatches the winning pass on the rebound from an opponent's chest. But they are just as quick to fry his hide if it breaks the other [illegible].

Well, to resurrect an old corpse, the day after Max Schmeling bopped Louis until he tumbled in a swoon, the fan mail directed at this pillar was terrific—pencilled scribs on butchers paper, one written with lipstick on a paper towel, inflammatory notes in purple ink, some in stumble-fingered type, and all, all gems of the purest vituperations, sealed with a kiss.

This was very painful. I was called horse-face, dog-face and other titles inappropriate for mention until even the little word ending in 'ouse was robbed of its original force by frequent repetition.

Who After Lewis?

TOMORROW NIGHT LOUIS MAY TURN in a sluggish fight. I don't say he will. But he is about due. Then the cheers will become jeers and the hot-blowers of fustiana will again breathe gusts of boarfrost.

Meanwhile the heavyweight fight industry lapses deeper into the doldrums. After Louis-Lewis what? Lee Nova is a mere apprentice, two years away. Tony Galento is a museum oddity. Max Baer and Jimmy Braddock are discredited antiques. Tommy Farr is an animated chopping block.

Where, in the breadth of this star spangled land, is the youth who will win back pugilism's white supremacy? Somewhere at this instant there is a muscular kid with adolescent pin fuzz on his chin. He may be a farm boy, or a mine apprentice or a factory swipe. But the inevitable law of nature, "Youth must be served," spells Louis' end. That boy, in his appointed time will keep his rendezvous with fate.

But not yet. Louis still has a term of years ahead.

Five N. E. Amateurs Leave for Detroit And Hearst Finals

By WALTER KILEY

Five of New England's greatest amateur boxers were all primed today to set sail for Detroit and the National Hearst All-America championships, which are due to be decided at the Detroit Olympia on Friday night.

The Boston party comprising five of the eight recently crowned Eastern Hearst All-America champions was to have been on the Worcester leaving South Station at 4:10 this afternoon. The quintet was to meet at South Station at 3:30.

The New England team numbering [illegible] was one of the strongest [illegible] ever made up of Hearst champions [illegible] Eddie Eagen of Yale, Boston Latin Henry [illegible] of Boston's Hyde Park, Vince Waterworth of Providence and Al Delmore of Lowell. While Johnny Delsanno, 126 pounds, and Vince Fratello, 160 pounds, the two New York City members, were to greet the locals in Detroit tomorrow morning.

The entire group will be quartered at the Fort Shelby Hotel in Detroit and was to go into training immediately on arrival at the Automobile City.

From Detroit comes word that the rival teams from the Pacific Coast, the Mid West and South held the Easterners in the greatest respect, each of them anticipating that their greatest competition would come from the Eastern titleholders.

EARNED SPURS

These Eastern team members had won their spurs and the chance at the national titles in the mammoth amateur championships shows staged by the Boston Evening American Daily Record at Boston Garden last December.

Indications are that a capacity crowd of close to 17,000 will sit in at the Olympia.

Tobin Won't Tell Readville Views

Prior to public hearings before the city council on the second petition for the establishment of a dog racing plant at the old Readville trotting track, Mayor Tobin refused comment today.

"The matter," he said, "is now before the city council, where it belongs. There will be a public hearing, at which time both sides will be heard. It would not be proper to comment before."

The second petition was filed yesterday afternoon after Mayor Tobin, heartening to the protests of clergymen and business leaders vetoed the council order approving the track, an order adopted so speedily as to cause widespread criticism.

$1,000,000 Drawn By Sonja Henie | Hazel Franklin Wins Praise

By JACK CONWAY

SONJA HENIE'S American tour drew $1,000,000 it was revealed today by Walter Brown, General Manager of the Boston Garden.

Sonja drew $[illegible] in New York during her six performances there, said Brown. The Boston shows did $133,000 more, while the receipts in the other cities where the little Norwegian girl showed brought the grand total to more than $1,000,000.

I have signed Sonja to appear in England under my direction. I have already closed with the English promoters, and plan to put the show on in London in April. Sonja will make a picture in Hollywood before she goes to England.

They got a $4.40 top for the Sonja show in New York. The speculators got $12 a pair for [illegible]. Sonja is still the greatest ice carnival attraction [illegible].

The Ladies of 1939' drew $87,000 during its stay at the Garden which was a pickup over last year. . . This is a magnificent show [illegible] . . . I would like to have [illegible] Derby and the Silver Skates Derby. [illegible] is an amazing [illegible] . . . and in two or three years [illegible] skaters in the world.

I have been trying to bring another ice carnival to Boston but have been unable to get what I consider the right type of attraction. I would not consider anything but the best in the way of a show. [illegible] would have to have a top attraction follow [illegible] and the Silver Skates Derby.

[illegible] by several fans [illegible] for two years . . . Jim did [illegible] for a year.

I predict that "The Shadow" is a wrestler with anywhere from [illegible] years of experience. In addition to his great power, he is a perfect wrestler. Only experience and bouts against headliners would perfect "The Shadow" to his present high state of efficiency.

14,000 See Bruins Battle Canadiens In Garden Fray

By BILL GRIMES

Although they have amassed 21 points more than Cecil Hart's hirelings, the Bruins realize that they have their work cut out for themselves tonight when they meet Les Canadiens at the Boston Garden.

In 27 games the Roosmen have lost only seven decisions but by a strange coincidence, Les Canadiens, who have won only six games in 29 starts, have chalked up two shutouts over the Bruins. The Flying Frenchmen scored a 2 to 0 win over the Bruins on December 1 in Montreal the night that Brimsek broke in and last Thursday night, Johnny Gagnon tallied the lone goal which brought about a 1 to 0 victory for the House of Hart.

The Bruins are firmly convinced that the Canadiens can make them plenty of trouble over the second half season, with a total of four games to play, and they will go after the French team from the opening whistle determined to get the jump on the invaders.

CUDE TURNED TRICK

Bruins players felt only the marvelous play of Petch Cude in the French net stopped them last Thursday, when Canadiens won a 1-0 game on Johnny Gagnon's second period goal with Bruins a man short. Cude, when on his game, is close to major league tops and he is apparently cured now of his early season breakdown which caused Cecil Hart to supplant him with Claude Bourque in the Montreal net.

Canadiens will start out with Babe Siebert and Walter Buswell, a couple of iron men who play long stretches, on the defense, and the startling line probably will have Paul Haynes at center, Tos Blake at left wing and Johnny Gagnon at right wing. Canadiens will be matching potentially the best team in hockey and Bruins have confidence they can prove their class against the invaders.

EXPECT 14,000 FANS

The 14,000 fans who will flock to the Garden to see what promises to be a high spirited, hard hitting game will see in all probability Bruins' combination game functioning in expected high class manner. The lines with their injured members back have started to shake down, and improved timing will mean the proper finishing off of many scoring chances Bruins have been just missing.

They proved that in the third period against Detroit when they ran in five goals against Tiny Thompson, at the same time giving Frankie Brimsek his seventh shutout of the year to lead all National League goalers in that department, one over Turk Broda.

Up and Over Cowboy Bill Cowley of Bruins leaps over stick of Frankie Brimsek during Bruins practice just to prove he's in shape again after long layoff. Bruins meet Canadiens tonight.

Vander Meer Takes Trophy Honors Lightly

MAPLEWOOD, N. J., Jan. 24 (AP)—The only thing so rare as a day in June is a major league pitcher exhibiting modesty on a day in January, about the time the baseball guys begin asking for the kind of money they know they won't get.

Such a rarity is Johnny (I wonder how it happened) Vander Meer, the Midland Park boy who pitched two consecutive no-hit, no-run games last summer.

"I," said Johnny to a crowd of high school kids, "am not a big league pitcher yet. I still have plenty to learn."

Even while he spoke these words to a bunch of youngsters who didn't know whether to laugh or just blame it on the bum acoustics Johnny was being named in Boston, Mass., as the major league player who performed the outstanding feat of the 1938 season.

The naming was done by the Boston chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The announcement said that on February 3 the Cincinnati Reds' Vander Meer will be awarded the Paul Shannon memorial trophy—a memorial to the late president of the association, who died last week in Florida.

Johnny, meanwhile, told the Maplewood pupils:

"I have to curb my wildness. Control is the most important pitching attribute.

"A blinding fast ball or a fast-breaking curve doesn't mean a thing if you can't signal your catcher the exact spot it's going to strike his glove."

24 Relay Teams Aspire to Win Cahill Trophy

A new trophy for the fastest one-mile college relay team will be given at the Prout games in the Boston Garden Saturday night to perpetuate the memory of Dr. Harry P. Cahill, Boston surgeon who died recently.

A graduate of Holy Cross, a track and football man of the highest order, Dr. Cahill never missed the Massachusetts K. of C. games since their inception in 1922. He won the schoolboy 600-yard race at the old Mechanics Building track in 1903 to clinch the B. A. A. inter-scholastics for the combined Worcester high school team.

Twenty-four teams will be eligible for the trophy, as 20 varsity and four junior varsity combinations are entered. Favorite for the first leg on the new cup will be the Fordham team which turned in 3:21.2 in flat-soled shoes in a New Jersey Armory, Saturday. In that race Fordham beat N. Y. U. by 20 yards and they meet here again Saturday, with Rhode Island as an added starter.

Other pairings that might produce the fastest time of the night are Holy Cross and Manhattan; B. C., Northeastern and Seton Hall; Yale and Tech; Wesleyan, Brown and New Hampshire; Bates, Amherst and Colgate, or the winner of the four-cornered race involving Mass. State, Tufts, Middlebury and Worcester Tech.

Incidentally, the K. of C. mile field is now complete, with Gene Venzke's entry posted. He will oppose Glenn Cunningham, Chuck Fenske, Blaine Rideout, Mel Trutt and Harvard's Roswell Brayton in a six-man field. Cunningham has won the last four K. of C. miles and again is favorite.

Gene Venzke defeats Glenn Cunningham as he breaks world record in national 1500-meter championship, a few years back. Gene's time was 3:49.9. Gene and Glenn renew rivalry Saturday at K. of C. meet here.

'Sick Man,' Says Farr

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24 (INS)—Describing himself as a "sick man," Tommy Farr, British heavyweight fighter, was in Miami Beach today, for a complete rest.

"I caught a cold last October and haven't been able to shake it since," Farr said.

Farr said he would like to meet Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, with whom he stayed 15 rounds in 1937. Farr also said Louis would defeat John Henry Lewis tomorrow.

Babe Didrikson--Housewife

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24 (INS)—"And when you mention my name don't say 'world's greatest athlete or Olympic champion' just say 'housewife'"—

Could it be possible that this was Babe Didrikson, the two fisted, hard riding gal from Texas, speakin'?

"You can have your athletic championships, the cheer of the crowds and the thrill of competition—as for me—the most wonderful thing in the world is 'home, sweet home,'" she said here today.

And with that the very devoted bride tucked her head through the arm of the equally devoted groom, Mr. George Zaharias, of the wrestling fraternity, and the 'two tripped blithely off the first tee at the Brentwood Club.

Of course, they hadn't gone more than 20 feet before Babe turned to her 240-pound giant of a husband and said:

"I bet I outdrove you on that tee . . ."

Love of competition is so instilled in the hear tof Mrs. George Zaharias that even if she were to give up golf entirely she would still think in terms of beating some one in some thing.

"What we are going to do," said Zaharias, "is to own our own home.

JIMMY FOXX BABE DIDRIKSON

"Babe has a ranch in Texas, and I have a ranch in Colorado. But she doesn't want to stay in Colorado, and I don't want to stay in Texas. So we're arbitrating, and we're going to buy a home in Santa Monica. Doesn't that seem fair enough?"

British Ace Plans Comeback

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Dorothy Round Little, Wimbledon women's champion in 1934 and 1937, will return to international tennis competition this season after a year's layoff.

Mrs. Little, married shortly after winning the 1937 title, and now mother of a five and a half months old son, has been nominated for the office of captain of the 1939 British Wightman Cup team, which plays the United States in America.

Though it is doubtful if Mrs. Little will accept this position, she has announced she will try for the team and also attempt to regain the Wimbledon title.

Notre Dame Boasts Great Freshman Back

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Next time Elmer Layden starts moaning about Notre Dame prospects, give him the bird . . . and ask him what about that freshman fullback they got out there . . . This guy is so good they asked him to quit practice because he was making the varsity look sad by scoring so many touchdowns.

Well, who do you like—Champion Joe or Champion John? . . . Most of us can name the winner, but can't spell his name . . . How come Archie San Romani wasn't invited to run in the Boston K. of C. games or in the Wanamaker mile here?

* * *

Last week's best line was Prof. Whitney (Eli) Martin's: "Farr still is No. 1 in the hit parade" . . . (Right-o, as the Mayfair boys say) . . . That trip to the coast to beat the All-Stars cost the pro football giants money which may account for owner Tim Mara's rush to get to Hialeah.

* * *

The other day reference was made here to a pair of umps names Ruff and Tuff in the Northeast Arkansas League . . . Now up bobs Sayerville, N. J., with a basketball referee named Genius . . . Right after the Louis vs. Lewis scrap, Mike Jacobs is expected to announce a Davey Day-Henry Armstrong fight; also Bob Pastor vs. the Great Galento for March 31.

* * *

What the race world wants to know is whether El Chico (the Derby future book favorite, rain or shine) can keep his speed for the mile and a quarter Derby route . . . His popper wasn't so hot at the distance . . . Tommy Farr has gone to Miami instead of Hot Springs, which puts him farther away from the heavyweight picture than ever . . . Most of the boxing scribes here think Louis will turn the trick between the third and eighth rounds.

* * *

Sammy Snead turned down a cool $35,000 for two years of exhibitions at the World's Fair . . . Turning up your nose at dough like that must give a guy a grand and glorious feeling.

Sports Celebrities At Shannon Mass

Public officials, sports celebrities and fans attended a memorial high mass of requiem today at the Church of the Immaculate Conception for Paul H. Shannon, famous New England sports writer drowned last Friday at St. Petersburg, Fla.

At the same time at St. Joseph's church, St. Petersburg, funeral services were held for Shannon, president of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Canada Asks U. S. Aid in Duck Drive

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24 (AP)—Aid of sportsmen in the United States is being sought in establishing conservation areas to increase the number of ducks in Northern Canada.

Thomas C. Main, general manager of the Canadian branch of Ducks Unlimited, told local members of the organization that unless U. S. sportsmen back efforts to conserve areas in Canada, a "closed season on ducks of 20 years' duration would be fruitless."

"We are planning to establish 200,000 acres of conservation area in that territory," Main said, "and in the course of a few years the number of ducks available will be tripled.

"Canada will co-operate, but the lead and financial assistance must come from this country."

Sygnot Wins Arena Final

Peter Sygnot, 18-year-old Weymouth boy, punched his way to victory over Paul Bentevigna in the 112-pound class final in the Arena amateur boxing show last night.

Thus Sygnot moved into the Diamond Belt finals under the Irish-American A. A. auspices. It was the fourth and last tryout tournament for the Diamond Belt championships. Final bouts results:

112—Peter Sygnot, Weymouth, defeated Paul Bentevigna, Boston, 3 rounds.

Converting the Collegians

Charlie Peterson Stops at Harvard On Billiards Tour

By HERB FINNEGAN

It probably never will rival college football as a gate attraction, but the centuries old game of billiards has been looking up since Charlie Peterson started his good will campus tour around the good old U. S.

Charlie, you should recall, is the world's foremost exponent of the trick shot. In addition, he's no mean hand at taking his billiards straight. So what with his entertainment program and his instructions to undergrads, he is well qualified to spread the gospel of the green baize game.

You never knew it, and neither did I, that there are 65 higher institutions of learning enrolled in the Association of College Unions, which fosters intercollegiate billiards and which sends Charlie on his annual conversion tour and the enrollment is mounting yearly.

Old "show me a shot I can't make," started his 1938-39 trip last Oct. 13 by shooting 150 points in one minute in an airplane. But you probably read about that in Ripley's column.

HE'S KEPT BUSY

At any rate, he has been playing almost daily—sometimes twice a day—at various colleges and schools since then and is booked solidly through May 15.

Take a brief glimpse at his itinerary;

Jan. 17 and 18 — Brown; Jan. 20 — Bates; Jan. 21—Hebron Academy; Jan. 23 —Bowdoin (postponed because of exams); Jan. 24 (today) Harvard; Jan. 25—Holy Cross; Jan. 26—Wesleyan; Jan. 27—Yale; Jan. 28—Boys' Club at Springfield; Jan. 29—West Point; Jan. 30—West Point; Jan. 31—Columbia.

Feb. 1 — Boys' Club of America, New York City; Feb. 2—Fordham; Feb. 4—Rensselaer (Troy, N. Y.); Feb. 6 — Lafayette; Feb. 8—Penn Hall.

CORNELL CHAMPION

Follows a week around Washington, where he demonstrates the glories of the game at St. John's (Baltimore), Johns Hopkins, Annapolis, George Washington University and Georgetown.

Then he swings into Virginia, on into the deep South, then West to Missouri, etc.

Co-eds, he says, are taking to the game with avidity. They find it a fine relaxation from their studies. Every college Charlie visits on his tour has its own billiards table, so Charlie sees a glowing future for the game when played in the proper atmosphere.

Charlie gives much credit to Paul Hartenstein of Penn, J. E. Patrick of Indiana and Porter Butts of Wisconsin for reviving the game, and he asks us to keep an eye on the intercollegiate championship, which is to be held by telegraph February 9.

Harvard, where Charlie is playing this evening at 7:30, is not a member of the Associations of College Unions, and Charlie would like to rectify that.

Said the trick shot wizard:

CHARLIE PETERSON

"Harvard and Yale played billiards matches as far back as 1860. They were the pioneers in the game and I'd like to see them renewing that rivalry."

Perhaps tonight's exhibition will help.

Cornell, if you are interested, is the straight rail champion among the colleges; Wisconsin is the three-cushion champion, and Florida holds the scepter among the pocket billiardists.

PARTNERED HOFFE

Charlie first brought his cue to Boston in 1910 and has seldom missed a winter visit here since. He teamed with Willie Hoppe on his tours from 1916 through 1923 when billiards was enjoying its golden era here.

After that he returned to St. Louis where he owns a billiard emporium.

JUNIOR SEEKS TITLE SHOT

It was learned definitely from New York today that Paul Junior will get a shot at Henry Armstrong's lightweight championship in February 10 if he wins over Lou Ambers in the 10-round feature bout of the Goodwin A. C. ring show at the Boston Garden Friday night.

Armstrong has been tentatively matched with Bobby Pacho for February 10, but the contracts will not be signed until after the Ambers-Junior fight here.

If Junior scores a victory over Ambers, he'll get the crack at the crown in place of Pacho.

Ambers, himself looking for a return bout with Armstrong, who stripped him of his lightweight crown last year, is apparently being given the dodge by Hammering Henry.

TICKY FORD

Paul Junior will be shooting the entire works against the Herkimer, N. Y., Hurricane, feeing he'll have plenty of time to think over Armstrong and a title shot after next Friday night. Paul Junior will e on the short end but there's a bright chance he'll score one of the biggest upsets seen here in years.

Six-round preliminaries Friday night will be Carl Dell, New York vs. Bobby Allen, Nova Scotia; Jerry Zullo, Chelsea vs. K. O. Labbe, Lewiston, Me.; Ticky Ford, Lawrence, making his professional debut vs. Jack Haggerty, Worcester; George Salamone, East Boston vs. Frank Conti, Haverhill; and Frank Chmielewski, Polish sensation vs. Jack McClelland, Cambridge.
